"Agriculture is an imperfect market that rewards knowledge – and that provides the opportunity for outperformance."

Geoff Burke, Managing Director, Agro-Ecological Investment Management

Book now for the event that delivers the knowledge you need to hand-pick agricultural investments that are destined to outperform

Agriculture is poised for unparalleled global growth, driven by soaring birth rates, higher living standards and rising demand for food. As a result, investment is rising sharply, with a flood of new funds and products designed to get exposure to agriculture markets – offering the prospect of lucrative opportunities and stellar performance for those who are quick to spot the trend and maximise the long-term prospects.

Today's leading analysts are convinced the farmland asset class is on course to become a prime asset class, perhaps even the best investment of our time, for institutional investors – especially since agriculture not only offers diversification from traditional asset classes, but is also demonstrably capable of delivering superior returns to listed equities.

As ever, investment is all about the timing. And the signals indicate that those who get first mover advantage will see the lion's share of the gains.

So what's the downside?

As a relatively new and untapped asset class, agriculture remains mysterious to many institutional investors. A lack of knowledge is holding them back.

Just ask yourself: How long will it take to pull together – and evaluate – all the essential research before you even begin to draw up a viable strategy? And how many opportunities will be grabbed by your rivals while you and your team plough through reports, spreadsheets, business plans, company profiles, press cuttings and all the rest?

Be part of the first and only event focused exclusively on global agriculture investment opportunities

There's another way to get the jump start you need: take part in the World Agricultural Investment Conference.

This top level business intelligence summit will deliver the knowledge and understanding you need to capitalise on the rich array of agriculture opportunities currently available – and help you make shrewd investment decisions.

Taking part is the fastest way to accelerate your learning of agribusiness, and get a proper understanding of a vibrant marketplace with the potential to generate significant returns, both in the short-term and over longer periods.

Instead of spending weeks pouring over dry desk research, you'll be face to face with a room full of renowned, hands-on experts – financial players who will be converging on London from all over the world, intent on giving you the crucial information and contacts you need to give your portfolio the edge.

Over two intense – and fascinating – days, the focus is on practical agriculture investment.

Which is to say there is nothing theoretical about this event. No empty theory or classroom jargon. Just valuable business advice from people who are at the forefront of the agribusiness community.

Join hundreds of investors who are meeting to network, learn and share their agriculture investment knowledge

Through a series of case studies, interactive panel discussions and networking sessions, you'll be able to pick the brains of leading investors in the agribusiness industry: our speaker faculty includes senior executives from the likes of ABN AMRO, Insight Investment, Citi, Emergent Asset Management, Hancock Agricultural Investment Group, Pharos Miro Agriculture Fund to name but a few.

Together, they will show you how to:

- IDENTIFY the best agriculture opportunities from across the globe
- CAPITALISE on agriculture investment strategies that have already proved their value
- UNDERSTAND the practicalities of agriculture investment
- LEARN how the market leaders evaluate their agriculture investment opportunities
- EXPLOIT differing regional policies, laws and regulations relating to agriculture

Explore the dynamic new range of investable opportunities, then diversify and strengthen your portfolio – with an emphasis on outperformance

When you come to examine the conference programme, you will see how this event enables you to zone in on locations with premium risk/return profiles, and identify the many and various ways you can get exposure to agriculture markets.

From land purchase, to equity investments in agribusinesses, to pure derivative strategies: come and drill down into the merits and limitations of each, so you can see clearly which investment strategies are best equipped to fulfil your needs.

We promise plenty of candid discussion and debate among leading Ag fund managers and agribusiness professionals on the strategies available to investors to get exposure to agriculture markets... the risk/return profiles of those strategies... global agriculture investment opportunities in both emerging and established markets... professional tactics on accessing agriculture markets through futures... plus exclusive insight into greenfield investments. And that's just for starters!

You'll not only get to grips with agriculture as a new asset class, you'll also meet and network with some of world's leading investors and agribusiness professionals

Senior investment managers, fund managers, portfolio managers, government officials, and heads of agricultural commodities, agriculture researchers and agribusiness professionals will all be taking part in the conference. Making this a once-only chance to discuss how – and why – they are selecting specific agriculture markets... how to maximise the opportunities and minimise pitfalls and risk... and of course how to generate significant returns.

This is an unprecedented opportunity to tap into a unique pool of agriculture investment expertise, and profit from knowledge and expertise that is, quite frankly, not available from any other source.

It is brought to you by FC Business Intelligence, market leaders in events designed to help successful organisations define their future strategy and direction, develop growth opportunities, and solve the problems facing their sectors.

Tickets for the World Agriculture Investment Conference are sold on a first-come-first-served basis and are going fast. Immediate booking is therefore strongly recommended.

What investors say about agriculture investments right now...

There are limited regions in the world which have sufficient land with good agri-production climates and potential. These regions are still relatively low priced so the future capital gain opportunity is very good.

Ian Henderson, Director, Texel Capital Limited

As the world population continues to grow ever larger and farmland continues to decrease, the farmland asset class will become one of the most important asset classes for institutional investors

Jeff Conrad, President, Hancock Agriculture Investment Group

Agriculture is an imperfect market that rewards knowledge and that provides the opportunity for out-performance.

Geoff Burke, Managing Director, Agro-Ecological Investment Management
